House & Home - August 2011

ABOVE: Such a white-on-white scheme means any amount of colour or pattern, like the Persian rug in the third-floor family room, will register with higher impact. Candlesticks, gold bowl, tray, Cynthia Findlay Antiques. RIGHT: Despite the near-total absence of colour, the principal bedroom still radiates plenty of elegance and drama, thanks to the classical shapes of the bow-front dresser and paper chandelier, and fashion motifs that give it a Parisian-apartment feel. Paper chandelier, Klaus; dresser, Châtelet; linens, Au Lit Fine Linens.

A group of bowler and top hat pendants makes a sartorial statement. Jake Phipps Jeeves & Wooster pendant lights. Wool felt; aluminum. $365 each (bowlers); $395 (top hat). At Mint.
